DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-6, 11-13, 17-19, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shigemitsu et al (4,840,874) in view of any of Takahasi et al (5,569,573), Urano et al (6,153,356), or Akiyama et al (6,637,334).

Shigemitsu et al disclose a method of forming a resist pattern on a substrate (any type of known substrate, which included aluminum bases that are employed in making printing plates) including the steps of coating a layer of resist on a substrate, pre-baking the resist at a temperature of 150 to 200 degrees C, rapidly cooling the coated substrate at a time which appears to fall within the instant claim limitations, then irradiated. The reference is silent with respect to the type of resist.

The three secondary references all teach heat sensitive resists comprising solvents, polymerizable microcapsules, initiators, and light to heat conversion agents.

Given the teachings of the references, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to prepare the material of the Shigemitsu et al reference choosing to employ the resist of any of the secondary references, with reasonable expectation of achieving a material having a uniform sensitivity.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 12/29/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant has argued that the references fails to teach the instantly claimed method as the primary reference does not teach a method of preparing a printing palter. As noted above, the Shigemitsu reference teach a method of rapidly cooling a pre-baked layer of any type of resist material on any type of substrate, including aluminum plates. Therefore, the reference is quite broad and would lead one of ordinary skill in the art to perform that step of prebaking with a layer of resist on an aluminum substrate, such as in the IR/ heat sensitive printing plate materials of the secondary references. Therefore the rejection is maintained.

In light of applicant's amendments, the 112 rejection has been dropped.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
